WebXtreme Launches New Website GetTheLowestRate.com

New Website Allows Consumers To Shop Multiple Lenders

June 19, 2006 – Lancaster, PA – WebXtreme Inc, an online business development company, has launched a new website giving consumers the ability to shop multiple lenders for the lowest rates for refinancing, debt consolidation, home equity or home purchase loan.

GetTheLowestRate.com was developed by an experienced mortgage broker and real estate agents that have an in-depth understanding of consumers needs, when buying, selling or refinancing a home. The co-founders also understand the needs of agents and brokers and have developed multiple sites to match real estate agents and brokers with consumers in need of services. These online properties include, GetMyHomesValue.com, NationalAgentDirectory.com and now GetTheLowestRate.com providing consumers with a complete set of online tools and services for buying or selling a home.

Consumers utilizing GetTheLowestRate.com will be matched with up to four lenders who will compete for their business helping them find the lowest rate available. This free service operates nationally and will save consumers hundreds or even thousands of dollars.

In addition to offering loan information GetTheLowestRate.com provides consumers with a wealth of resources regarding debt consolidation, budgeting, mortgage rates, financial planning, credit card debt relief and more.

“We wanted to not only provide consumers with the lowest rates but also provide them with the resources to aid in their financial planning for the present and the future, so we have assembled a library of tools to help consumers with this process,” said WebXtreme co-founder Rory Wilfong.
